A Derbyshire Primary School's experience:

"The Solihull Approach has definitely helped us to engage with more effectively with parents, some of whom had bad experiences of school themselves so were pretty stand-offish to begin with. We've noticed it makes a big difference to attendance, and staff are more sympathetic to the parents' circumstances. Behaviourally – we see a big difference with the children's behaviour, instead of treating them like repeat offenders, staff are more likely to get down on the children's level and find out what was behind the behaviour so our relationship with the kids is strengthened while the problem behaviour often improves."
